Leadership through Ethical Decision Making

Presented by: Rose Procter

The Program: How we lead matters; leading ethically and with integrity is imperative. This learning session will take a look into how your ethical beliefs and values impact your leadership. Thus, ensuring that your organization and team members are being led to reflect the highest level of integrity and respect for others and the community in which you serve.

The Presenter: Rose Procter serves as the Director of the BB&T Center for Ethical Leadership within the Mike Cottrell College of Business at the University of North Georgia. Having been in higher education for over 18 years and as an entrepreneur herself, Rose has a genuine passion for leadership and entrepreneurship, especially the importance of ethical leadership in a business. In her role at UNG, she has been instrumental in leading the Center to great success in programming at the K-12, university and community levels. Over 10,000 professionals have benefited from two programs that she has helped develop: the Building Ethical Leaders Leadership Development Program and the Ethical Culture Indicator Assessment for Leadership Effectiveness. She truly believes in the Center's mission to develop ethical leaders and strives to create value in building ethical organizational cultures.
